To Whom It May Concern

I am writing this letter to highly recommend Ms. Sai Avanthika Krishnamoorthy, who was associated with Amulya Leather Impex for a total of 11 months—initially joining us as a Business Analyst Intern and later being offered a full-time position as a Business Analyst for an additional eight months, owing to her strong performance and contributions.

During her tenure, Sai Avanthika played an integral role in driving business analysis and product development initiatives that supported critical decision-making across departments. She demonstrated a strong ability to gather, analyze, and interpret business data, translating insights into clear recommendations that improved operational efficiency and product functionality.

Sai Avanthika consistently collaborated with stakeholders to define and refine product features, create user-centric documentation, and contribute to the development of functional specifications. She was instrumental in streamlining internal workflows and identifying areas for product improvement, often backing her proposals with well-structured data models and user feedback analysis.

With her background in Computer Science Engineering, she brought solid technical acumen to her role, which enabled her to bridge the gap between business needs and technical teams. She developed internal dashboards and data tracking tools that significantly enhanced visibility into key performance metrics and informed product iteration cycles.

In addition to her analytical and technical capabilities, Sai Avanthika exhibited exceptional communication, adaptability, and a proactive mindset. She eagerly took ownership of complex tasks, showed great initiative in cross-functional collaboration, and always approached challenges with a problem-solving attitude.

It is without hesitation that I recommend Sai Avanthika for any future role in business analysis or product management. She possesses a rare blend of strategic thinking, user focus, and data fluency—qualities that are invaluable in today's fast-paced business environments. Please feel free to reach out to me at the contact details below if you would like to discuss her qualifications or contributions in further detail.

Sincerely,

For AMULYA LEATHER IMPEX
